Fledglings for Early Years

EYFS session at Flag Fen

Fledglings for early years provides outdoor learning opportunities for preschool children in which they can explore, engage with and understand the natural world. Through interactive storytelling, nature play, music, puppetry and more, the sessions provide opportunities for building positive relationships, developing imagination, physical development, expression, and increasing confidence outdoors. Set in the Forest School area of an internationally significant archaeological site, we aim to bring the wonders of nature alive and utilise the positive effects of learning in nature's playground.

Choose from the following sessions:

The Colours of Nature

Explore nature's rainbow in this colourful adventure with Billy the blackbird and his friends. Become part of an interactive story exploring themes of difference and acceptance. Develop observation and creative skills by creating your own natural rainbow from scavenged materials, explore themes of conservation and environmental responsibility by making bird friendly feeders as well as other nature themed opportunities for directed play.

Woodland Friends

Join Harry the hedgehog on his quest for new spikes, get crafty with natural materials to create your own hedgehog, explore habitats, identify bugs for the hedgehog's breakfast and much more woodland play opportunities.

Nature's Orchestra

This sensory experience includes the opportunity to create your own natural instruments and join the woodland orchestra in an interactive story, "Don't wake Badger". Children will learn to listen to the environment, explore music, rhythm and develop creativity and expression through this symphony of fun and learning.
